

DEADLY BACTERIA TO POSE ON SCREEN AS MOVIE ACTORS

Boston Scientists Devise Way to Exhibit Germs of Infectious Diseases.

BOSTON, May 20.—BACTERIA as "movie" actors will be screened before students of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology if the plans of two members of the institute's faculty are carried out successfully. Experiments have resulted in the development of a method whereby motion pictures may be made of microscopic organisms. Elaborate methods have been developed for handling the germs of infectious diseases in order to obtain the pictures.

TUBE FARE FIGHT MAY GO TO COURT

Attorneys Plan to Ask Writ for Review of Interstate Commerce Commission Hearing.

Following the refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant a twenty-day continuance to answer the claims on which the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company won its recent fare increase, Attorneys Capt. John Bentley and Senator Charles M. Egan, representing Jersey City, and John J. Fallon, representing Hoboken, today declared they will carry the case to the courts unless a continuance is granted. The court appeal would be for a writ of certiorari calling for a review of the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing with "the idea of determining the legality thereof."

NICHOLS GUILTY OF MURDER.

Navy Deserter Second Man Convicted in Watchcock Killing.

Guy Nichols, implicated in the hold-up and killing of Samuel Watchcock in his stationery store at No. 268 Wyckoff Avenue, Brooklyn, March 11, last year, was convicted yesterday of murder in the first degree before Supreme Court Justice Manning in that borough. Nichols, twenty-four, is a native of Danville, O. He was a deserter from the navy at the time of the hold-up. He took his conviction stoically. He will be sentenced next Monday. He is the second man to be convicted in the case, Jesse Walker, his nineteen-year-old accomplice, having been convicted weeks ago and sentenced to die. Joseph F. Auth, the third man alleged to have been involved in the crime, is awaiting trial on an indictment charging murder in the first degree.

BOYS PLEAD GUILTY IN BOND ROBBERIES

Gluck Brothers Expected to Be Witnesses for State at Trial of Arnstein.

Joseph and Irving Gluck, brothers, of No. 209 South Seventh Street, Mount Vernon, who have confessed to a $400,000 share in the $5,000,000 Wall Street security robberies of last summer and fall, pleaded guilty before Judge Malone in General Sessions today through their counsel, Frank Arnstein. Assistant District Attorney Dooley said both boys would be used as witnesses against Nicky Arnstein in his trial for complicity in the robberies. Sentence was deferred until May 25. Joseph Gluck has told of an elaborate system by which Irving, obtaining employment under various names as a Wall Street messenger, stole bonds by wholesale and turned them over to his brother, who, in turn, according to his confession, disposed of them through Arnstein and Nick Cohen, now a fugitive from justice. Joseph Gluck asserted he had received a profit of about $5,000 from the transaction.

It was said at the District Attorney's office that the confessor of Irving Gluck involved the name of a man in close touch with many leaders in city Democratic politics, who made the first suggestion that he could find a way to sell bonds stolen by the boys.

WIFE NO. 1 LOSES SUIT AGAINST NO. 2

Jury, in $50,000 Case, Decides Present Mrs. Jackson Did Not Alienate Affections.

Justice Gavegan in the Bronx Supreme Court this morning opened the sealed verdict returned late yesterday by the jury in the $50,000 suit brought by Mrs. Edna M. Jackson against Mrs. Agnes Ennis Jackson, second wife of Henry B. Jackson, a salesman. Mrs. Jackson No. 1 charged wife No. 2 with alienation of Jackson's affections. The jury decided in favor of wife No. 2. Justice Gavegan dismissed motions for a new trial. Jackson and Mrs. Edna M. Jackson were married in 1908 and divorced in April, 1912. Jackson the following June married Miss Alice Ennis, a high school teacher, and shortly after their marriage his first wife brought suit.

MAYOR TO ORDER GAS INVESTIGATION

Calls Prediction of Famine a Scheme to Force Increase in Rates.

Mayor Hylan today expressed himself freely on the prediction of William Merrifield, engineer of the Public Service Commission, that New York will be threatened with a gas famine within the next few months. The reason for this, Mr. Merrifield said, was the inferior quality of gas making oils. The Mayor said: "This prophecy sounds like another scheme of the public utilities to force a higher gas rate. I shall instruct the Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity to begin immediately a city-wide investigation of the gas situation. Any statement in regard to transit of gas and electricity which comes from the Public Service Commission is given little consideration by the people. They feel the Commission is more in sympathy with the public utility interests than with them. I hope to thwart all plans for rate raises."
